Monday of the Sixth Week in Ordinary Time

“If you do well, you can hold up your head; but if not, sin is a demon lurking at the door: his urge is toward you, yet you can be his master.” Cain does not heed these words of the Lord and suffers the consequence of his sin. Yet, God shows Cain mercy when Cain pleads to the Lord.

The Pharisees do not know who they are dealing with and Jesus leaves them and goes to the other shore. “You shall not put the Lord your God to the test” (Deuteronomy 6:16; Luke 4:12). If only we would listen to the Good Lord and follow Him! Jesus is the sign from heaven – He has taken upon Himself our sins and destroyed them on the Cross. The greatest sign is that He rose from death! He is alive and He wants to bring all of us to the other shore: Heaven!

God Love You!
